2016 was a wildly successful year for the Wild Arts Festival as 4,700 nature lovers and art enthusiasts attended the Festival, raising over $180,000 to support the mission of Audubon Society of Portland.

The Festival

For two days on November 18th and 19th, the Montgomery Park Atrium, Mezzanine and Ballroom will be transformed into the Northwest's premiere show of nature art and books in a festive atmosphere of beautiful and captivating displays. Artists offer a wide range of work, with nature, wildlife or sustainability as an inspiration. Authors are a mix of novelists, photographers, poets and writers of fiction and non-fiction.

Festival highlights include:

Artist Showcase – 67 artists displaying ceramics, paintings, photography, jewelry, metal sculpture, glass, wood working, mixed media and textiles

Book Signings – 35 authors available to meet and sign books

The 6x6 Project – 200 local artists donate a bird-themed 6"x 6" canvas

Silent Auction – 300 items available for bidding, including nature themed art, outdoor activities and weekend getaways

Audubon Education Birds – meet birds of prey

Night Owl Soirée – A reception to thank our sponsors and donors

Children's Activity and Storytime – Family fun with crafts, birds and books

F&B Café – food and drink, open both days

Audubon Society of Portland

Founded in 1902, the Audubon Society of Portland is one of the oldest conservation organizations in the nation. The mission of the Audubon Society of Portland (ASoP) is to promote the enjoyment, understanding and protection of native birds, other wildlife and their habitats. ASoP connects people with nature and their power to protect it. From Portland's urban neighborhoods to across the region and state, ASoP has been instrumental in developing the environmental policies that shape our region today, helping to create Oregon's first National Wildlife Refuges, Portland's first Wildlife Refuges and the state's first marine reserves. ASoP offers educational programs designed to engage kids and adults alike in the appreciation and stewardship of nature, and our conservation programs provide a continuum of engagement opportunities in natural resources stewardship and protection. Hosting over 40,000 visitors each year, our 150-acre Wildlife Sanctuary, just five minutes from downtown Portland, offers four miles of family friendly trails, a Nature Store and the region's busiest wildlife rehabilitation center.
